Founder Printing Engineer

since

2008

For Hamzeh,

discipline is a way of life — a commitment to structure and consistency across both personal and professional life. It means setting a clear framework, following a considered routine, and moving steadily toward chosen goals.

My practice focuses on the complete process of fashion packaging, from initial design to the development of the final packaging items. I approach each project as a complete process, with attention to both design and execution.

Quality and luxury

are at the center of my approach. I believe packaging should reflect the character and value of what it represents, with careful attention to quality throughout the process.

I'm proud to be Iranian.
Period.

Personal Philosophy

I believe our achievements are blessings rather than something we can claim entirely as our own. Trust in God guides my path, reminding me to stay connected to Him and to approach both life and work with gratitude and purpose.
